Perhaps visibility is like oxygen.
As long as you can breathe yourself, nothing is missing.
It's only when someone else starts breathing that I suddenly notice the air.
Multiples Weiß explores this sense of disorientation.
Multiples Weiß looks at what is missing.

An exhibition wall featuring, say, 50% art by women strikes many people as surprisingly feminine.
Perhaps because we have grown accustomed to empty spaces?

Empty spaces are never empty.
They are filled with habit.
With the direction of our gaze.
With decisions about who becomes visible—and who does not.

Only when the balance shifts does unease arise.

About the Exhibition

"Multiples Weiß" is the anniversary exhibition marking the fifth anniversary of the Museum Haus des Papiers. It brings together recent acquisitions from the Paper Art Award, our special exhibition *"Fiber Future Lab", and our international special exhibition "Collage – Farbe und Fläche" to offer a unified exploration of visibility, materiality, and the question of which stories we tell—and which we do not.

For the past six years, the Museum Haus des Papiers has honored outstanding works of contemporary paper art with the Paper Art Award. The recent acquisitions expand the collection with new perspectives and are being presented for the first time as part of Multiples Weiß.

The 2026 Paper Art Award from the Haus des Papiers was presented as part of paper positions. Berlin (sponsored by d'mage, Hahnemühle, and Canon Germany).

The Paper Art Award 2026 went to:

- Gold Dirk Krecker (Galerie Heike Strehlow)
- Silver Inka Bell (Schwarz Contemporary)
- Bronze Hideaki Yamanobe (Galerie Biesenbach)

Fiber Future Lab is dedicated to current developments in the field of paper- and fiber-based sustainability, materials research, and future technologies.

The international special exhibition Collage – Farbe und Fläche emerged from an open call that received nearly 600 submissions. This project has since also given rise to the international initiative Club Collega (clubcollega.eu).
